Capital Markets

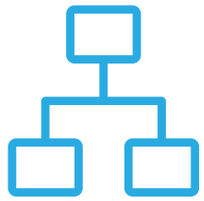

What are Capital Markets

Where market savers and lenders meet

Money market vs. capital market

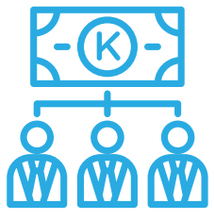

Capital Markets are structured into the primary and secondary markets

An avenue institutions use to raise funds and expand on their businesses or establish new ones by issuing securities owned by the companies.

What is the role of Capital Markets

Facilitating the reallocation of financial resources

Participate in the ownership of companies

Opportunity to raise long-term finance

Alternative method of investing savings

Inflow of international capital

Government raise funds for infrastructure development

Economic growth

Capital Markets

What are the capital market instruments

- Shares (listed and unlisted)
- Units
- Corporate bonds (listed and unlisted)
- Property
- Government notes and bonds(listed and unlisted)
- Derivatives
- Commodity

Who can participate in the capital market

- Stock Exchanges
- Securities Dealers
- Securities Brokers
- Securities Representatives
- Investment Advisors
- Securities Depository
- Collective Investment Schemes
- Portfolio Managers
- Transfer secretaries
- Securities Market Intermediaries
- Investors (retail and institutional)

Why should you invest in the capital market

- Generating more money
- Save for retirement
- Earn higher returns
- Reach financial goals
- Start and expand business
- Keep pace with inflation